The town that was built around the Palace bears witness to this rich period of French History.

Starting from the Royal courtyard, explore all of the Palace's visit circuits freely then cross the gardens and groves to the Grand Trianon and Marie-Antoinette's Estate.

MARIE-ANTOINETTE'S ESTATE

The restoration of "Marie-Antoinette's Estate" is part of the "Grand Versailles" project that aims most notably to show Versailles' contrasts: Classical and Baroque, destitution and extravagance, male inspiration from Louis XIV and female inspiration from Marie-Antoinette to Madame de Pompadour, to name just a few. The Petit Trianon and its gardens are inseparably linked from Marie-Antoinette: she was the only queen who imposed her personal tastes on Versailles, scoffing at Court traditions. In the Trianon estate, which Louis XVI gave to her in 1774, she found a haven of privacy that allowed her to escape from the rigours of Court Étiquette.

The Marie-Antoinette's Estate and the Grand Trianon are open every day, except on some French public holidays and during official ceremonies:

12noon to 6.30pm access to indoor areas until 5.45pm, gardens open until 7pm (liable to change)
